Over 5 million Americans are living with Alzheimer's disease. Museum programs can be mutually beneficial to people with Alzheimer's and their caregivers, providing them with opportunities for communication, connection, and learning that can enrich their lives.

Join us to learn about Alzheimer's disease, and its effect on the both the patient and caregiver, and ways to make your museum accessible to this population. Attendees will obtain practical information about how to develop new programs or expand existing offerings.

Panelists include:

Diana Holbrook, Caregiver; Jed Levine, Executive Vice President, Alzheimer's Association, New York City Chapter; Jennifer Kalter, Manager of School and Family Programs, American Folk Art Museum; Rebecca McGinnis, Access Coordinator, The Metropolitan Museum of Art; and Amir Parsa, Alzheimer's Project Manager, The Museum of Modern Art.

For more information or to register, please call 212.408.6347 or email accessprograms@moma.org.

Access Programs are made possible by a lead grant from the Stavros S. Niarchos Foundation. Additional support is provided by the Rita J. and Stanley H. Kaplan Family Foundation, Inc., The New York Times Company Foundation, Allene Reuss Memorial Trust, an anonymous donor, Renate, Hans & Maria Hofmann Trust, Charles Henry Leach II Foundation, Helen Bader Foundation, The Fan Fox and Leslie R. Samuels Foundation, Ambac Financial Group, Ducommun and Gross Family Foundation, and The Dunlevy Milbank Foundation, Inc.

The MoMA Alzheimer's Project: Making Art Accessible to People with Dementia is made possible by MetLife Foundation
