

HOFSTRA UNIVERSITY™

The IDEAS* Institute of Hofstra University's School of Education and Allied Human Services Offers:

Contemporary Topics in Science – Part 2

Thursday, February 5, 2009;
Three Spring IDEAS Lectures, and
Thursday, May 7, 2009

This second workshop offers participants the opportunity to attend a different set of IDEAS lectures with a study group of citizen-scientists seeking to better understand the lecture topics within the framework of organizing science principles. Participants analyze the lecture topics using the unifying concepts described in the national science education standards as a backdrop. In addition to attending the class session on February 5, 2009, other requirements include attending the class session on Thursday, May 7, 2009, attending three spring IDEAS lectures, and interaction online. Attendance at Part One is not required to enroll in Part Two.

2/5/09 and 5/7/09, 7:30 – 9:15 p.m., Hagedorn Hall, South Campus
See IDEAS webpage, hofstra.edu/IDEAS, for listings of the spring IDEAS lectures.

This workshop is appropriate for teachers, grades K-12, and interested members of the public.

See Registration form on reverse side for fee information.

About the Presenter:

Dr. Jacqueline Grennon-Brooks, associate professor of Curriculum and Teaching at Hofstra University, teaches courses in curriculum theory and science, math and technology education. Dr. Brooks holds an M.A. in developmental psychology and an Ed.D. from Teachers College, Columbia University. She earned an M.S. in urban and policy sciences and a B.A. in education from the Stony Brook University. She currently serves as president of the Children's Maritime Museum in Port Jefferson, New York, an initiative that has afforded numerous Hofstra students and graduates opportunities as researchers, interns and teachers.
