Counseling & Therapy in Video

Dear Subscriber,

Counseling and Therapy in Video provides a rich online collection of video for the study of social work, psychotherapy, psychology, and psychiatric counseling. The current release includes 284 videos totaling roughly 314 hours, and the database will grow to include 400 hours and more than 330 videos on completion.

Several types of videos have been chosen to provide a well-rounded collection that will be of interest to students, academics, and professionals alike:

Counseling Sessions and Demonstrations include filmed footage of actual therapy sessions, re-enacted therapy sessions, and scripted sessions designed by counseling professionals to illustrate common issues and scenarios that arise during courses of therapy. These videos often include narration and frameworks that put the sessions into theoretical context.

Consultations feature experts in particular courses of therapy advising other therapists on the application of their methods. These videos often include scenes of counseling sessions interspersed with analysis and discussions between the consultant, the practicing therapists, and the clients.

Lectures, presentations, and interviews feature well-known therapists discussing their own work and issues affecting the larger fields of mental health and wellness.

Features of this product include:

- multiple points of access-browses, searches, thumbnail images, and transcripts-allowing you to find your point of interest in hundreds of hours of video within seconds
- video clip-making tools
- annotated playlists-you can make, annotate, and share playlists for course or individual use
- an embeddable video player and playlist for use on a class Web site, library home page, or an electronic syllabus
