ingentaconnect™

Dear Subscriber,

ingentaconnect offers one of the most comprehensive collections of academic and professional research articles online - some 4.5 million articles from 13,500 publications. The Library maintains a subscription to their inTouch service which provides alerts by email when new issues of journals you track are published. You set up and manage a profile of journals you want to follow. These same profiles can also include searches that you construct and are periodically run against the entire database. Search results are also delivered to you by email. Contact Howard Graves if you would like help setting up your profile at howard.e.graves@hofstra.edu or x36429.

If you prefer, RSS can be used for alerts. The RSS links can be found on the journal's home page. A list of web-based RSS readers can be found here: <http://allrss.com/rssreaderswebbased.html> We can offer help getting started with Google Reader, one of many on that long list. Just contact Jamie Primo at jamie.primo@hofstra.edu or x34075.
