Hull, William D. (1918-1984) Papers, 1906-1984
bulk dates, 1935-1979
12.5 c.f.

Poet, professor, playwright

The William D. Hill Collection at Hofstra University consists of the personal and professional papers of Hull, who was a professor at Hofstra from 1946 until his death in 1984.

The collection includes personal and family correspondence, correspondence relating to his career as a professor at Hofstra and other institutions, and as a Fulbright scholar lecturing at universities in Sri Lanka and India; manuscripts of essays and lectures, poems, verse dramas, and his ten volume poetic work Visions of Handy Hopper; magazines and books containing poems and articles by Hull; audiotapes of Hull reading his works; photographs; music manuscripts, drawings and sketches; personal items and artifacts.

William Doyle Hull II*, son of William Doyle Hull Sr. and Mayme (Miller) Hull, was born in Westminster, South Carolina, in 1918. He received his B.A. degree from Furman University in Greenville, South Carolina, in 1938, and his M.A., 1940, and Ph.D., 1941, from the University of Virginia. In 1941-1942, he taught at Howard College in Birmingham, Alabama. He joined the U.S. Army in 1942, was trained in cryptography, and was stationed in India for several years.

After returning to civilian life, he taught briefly at North Carolina State College in Raleigh, and in 1946, he received an appointment as Instructor of English at Hofstra College (later, University) in Hempstead, N.Y. He was promoted to Assistant Professor, 1947, Associate Professor, 1950, and Professor of English in 1963. He was closely involved in the organization of the Hofstra University Faculty Senate, and served as chairman of the Senate Executive Committee for several years. In 1965 he received the University's Distinguished Teaching Award. He had a lasting influence on many of his students, as evidenced by the correspondence they maintained with him over the years.

Hull received a Fulbright award to teach American literature at the University of Ceylon (now Sri Lanka), 1955-1956. He received another Fulbright in 1959-1960 to teach at Patna University in India.

* When Hull used a suffix with his name, he usually used "II" rather than "jr".

As a poet, Hull was a prolific and ambitious writer. He wrote many short poems and contributed to numerous literary reviews and “little magazines” from the late 1930's through the 1950's. Publications in which his poems appeared include Sewanee Review, The Poetry Book Magazine, The Beloit Poetry Journal, Chicago Review, and Intro. He wrote several verse dramas including The Journey of Alcestis, and Saul at Endor. The latter was given a dramatic reading at Town Hall in New York City in 1952. The Catullus of William Hull, modern translations of the Roman poet, was published in 1960. In his later years he concentrated on longer works, including Dandy Brown, and Visions of Handy Hopper, which was published in ten volumes between 1970 and 1979.

Hull died in 1984 at the age of 66.
