We would like to take a moment to thank the director and instructors of the Hofstra University Sports Journalism and Broadcasting Program. The program has given our daughter, Julia, the foundation she needs to succeed in the world of sports journalism and broadcasting.

Entering a world where sports broadcasters are mainly men, the instructors have given our daughter the confidence she needs to go forth and fulfill her dreams. Starting with Michael Chisena, Director, he has guided Julia through the program, helping her to choose courses that fit her needs and specific interests.

The instructors, Keith Irizarry, Kevin Dexter and Dan Savarino have taught Julia the fundamentals she needs to pursue a career in a field that is dominated by men. They have taught her that women can succeed and become successful with the knowledge and know-how of the field. All of the instructors in the program were extremely knowledgeable, well-versed and enthusiastic about the field of sports journalism and broadcasting.

Julia was always treated in a professional manner and her work was always critiqued with her best interests at heart. She learned so much during the program that she is now confident to start Hofstra University in the fall and excited to continue her studies in this field. Thanks to the director and instructors of the Hofstra University Sports Journalism and Broadcasting, we are confident that our daughter is on the right path to a career in journalism and broadcasting.

We highly recommend this program to all students interested in this field, girls and boys alike. It will give them the knowledge and confidence they need to be successful in the field of sports journalism and broadcasting.
