Sports Journalism and Broadcasting Institute
Continuing Education

Student: Amanda Zumpano

I attended the Hofstra Sportscasting programs the past two years and learned so many useful skills I will be able to use in the future. There are so many great experiences involved in these programs.

One experience I greatly enjoyed was doing a mock sports broadcasting piece. Learning how to read off the teleprompter and being able to experience what it felt to be on camera was a skill I am glad to have learned. Doing radio broadcasts and learning how to do a play by play are just some of the other skills learned in these programs.

I am so glad that I attended in the previous years and plan on attending more programs in the future to increase my skills in sports broadcasting.
