

HOFSTRA UNIVERSITY®

Hofstra University proudly announces the 2008 Hofstra Engineering High School Student of the Month Award.

Hofstra University's Department of Engineering, which has been offering ABET-accredited degree programs since 1971, will recognize outstanding high school juniors with the 2008 Hofstra Engineering High School Student of the Month Award.

To be eligible, students must be juniors who are enrolled in chemistry or physics, math B, pre-calculus or above, and have demonstrated an interest in engineering and technology. A student may be nominated by one or more teachers in math, science or technology and/or a guidance counselor, along with approval by the school principal.

The Hofstra Engineering High School Student of the Month Award is based on hard work already undertaken, no other steps are needed, except the nomination. The first award for 2008 will be presented in March.

- ▶ For more information or to receive a nomination form call (516) 463-6818.
Go to hofstra.edu/engineeringaward to download PDF of the nomination form.

find your edge.®