Sondra and David S. Mack Student Center

The Mack Student Center houses many administrative and student organization offices, dining facilities, and meeting rooms. In addition, there are a collection of services available in the Mack Student Center for students' convenience:

Banking

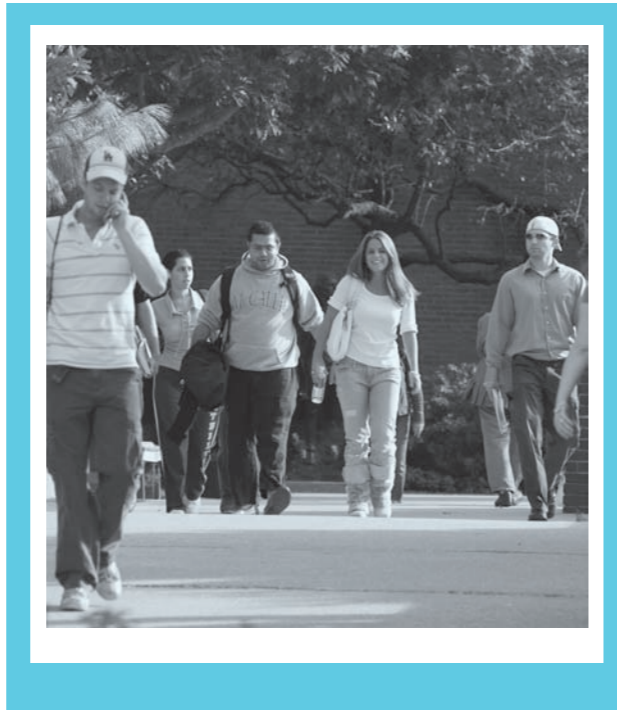

Commerce Bank manages a satellite branch in the Mack Student Center to provide on-campus banking services to Hofstra students, faculty and staff. In addition, a JPMorgan Chase ATM, a Citibank ATM, and a Nassau Educators Federal Credit Union ATM (no fee) are located in or near the Student Center.

Bookstore

The Hofstra University Bookstore, a service of Barnes & Noble, stocks textbooks and general interest books, and an assortment of clothing, greeting cards, stationery, snacks, toiletries and more.

HofstraCard Services

Hofstra has created a general declining balance account called Dutch Debits, which is accessed through the HofstraCard. To access the account, students log on to the Hofstra portal (my.hofstra.edu), while parents log on to the Hofstra Web site (hofstra.edu). Deposits can be made using cash, check or money order, Visa or MasterCard. Students are encouraged to plan ahead and deposit an amount they estimate they will need for the semester. This account may be used at many locations on campus, such as the Hofstra Bookstore, residence hall laundry rooms, Hofstra Concerts, Entertainment Unlimited (for on-campus movies, concessions and events), snack vending machines, and the Health and Wellness Center. The amount of each purchase is automatically deducted from the total balance. The HofstraCard is also used for meal plans as well as for access to the Axinn Library, the computer labs, the Recreation Center and all residence halls. Visit hofstra.edu/hofstracard for more information.

HX Salon

HX Salon offers a full line of salon services. Hair care products are also available for purchase. The salon is staffed by fully licensed and experienced technicians.

Linens Program

Hofstra offers a residence hall linens program through the Bookstore. These linens, offered in "Value Paks" of sheets, pillowcases and other bedding, come in a variety of colors and are shipped directly to your home. Linens are typically received within 7 to 10 days of the date the order is placed and are "guaranteed until graduation." The sheets are custom-made to fit the campus beds, which can be six inches or so longer than an average twin-sized bed. Details on the Value Paks are available at rhl.org/hof.

Post Office

A post office, located on the lower level of the Mack Student Center, provides basic mail services. Mail is also delivered to all residence halls Monday through Saturday.

Transportation

The University operates two courtesy buses 24 hours a day. The bus schedule is designed to give optimum service to those who may need transportation around campus and to designated off-campus locations. The buses are wheelchair accessible. Please visit hofstra.edu/transportation for the current schedule.

In addition, the center offers workshops throughout the year on such key topics as self-assessment, interview preparation, resume writing and job search skills. Center for University Advisement

The Center for University Advisement provides general academic advisement to undergraduate students from admission through graduation and is designed to support students' academic progress. Students are assigned an advisement dean who serves as their general academic adviser. In addition, after students declare a major, they also work closely with a faculty adviser in their major academic department. University Advisement also provides pre-professional advising for students contemplating graduate studies in either law or health-related professions.

Commuting Student Affairs

The Office of Commuting Student Affairs offers services to students who do not reside on campus. Located in the Mack Student Center, this office provides an environment in which students can connect with their peers, and also offers information, activities and events specific to the needs of our commuting population. Student lockers are available at no extra charge on the second floor of the Mack Student Center. Visit hofstra.edu/commuting.

Dean of Students

In addition to overseeing many of the offices responsible for creating programs to promote student and community development, the Dean of Students Office serves as a liaison for students to other areas of the University. Any questions, concerns or suggestions regarding any facet of student life may be discussed with the dean or one of the associate deans.

Interfaith Center

The Interfaith Center at Hofstra University consists of the Jewish, Muslim, Protestant, and Roman Catholic chaplains and their ministries. The Interfaith Center's mission is to promote spiritual and ethical awareness and growth, participation in the activities of faith and tradition, and understanding/cooperation among the religions of the world.

It also offers assistance with immigration and related issues. With more than 500 cultural programs and events taking place on campus each year, there are many ways to get involved.

Recreation Center

The Hofstra Recreation Center offers a multipurpose gym, indoor track, fully equipped weight room, spacious locker rooms, lounge area, cardio fitness equipment and mirrored aerobics/martial arts room. Hofstra students, faculty, staff and alumni must present a valid HofstraCard for entry. The Recreation Center is open from early morning until well into the evening. Visit hofstra.edu/CampusL/recreation.

Services for Students With Disabilities

Services for Students With Disabilities assists students with physical, learning and psychological disabilities. The staff arranges for appropriate academic accommodations and helps students develop the self-advocacy skills they need at Hofstra and beyond. To use the resources of Services for Students With Disabilities, students must complete a self-disclosure form and provide documentation of their disability. For more information, please call (516) 463-7075.

Student Counseling Services

Student Counseling Services offers psychological, vocational and educational counseling to students in an effort to facilitate meaningful personal growth and the fullest educational development of each individual. Individual and group counseling are available to students who are experiencing difficulties with emotions, behavior, academic, career or adjustment goals. The collaborative counseling process is used to clarify problems, establish realistic goals and develop proactive, short-term treatment solutions.

Personal, career and educational counseling are available to all students free of charge for the first three sessions. A modest fee is charged for each counseling visit beyond the third session. Career counseling, workshops and psychoeducational groups are offered without a fee.

Student Leadership and Activities

The Office of Student Leadership and Activities helps to organize many different events, including conferences, lectures, workshops, seminars, concerts, dance parties and social events. Through your involvement in this aspect of student life, you will learn valuable leadership, organizational, social and communication skills.

Student Leadership and Activities also supports the efforts of the Student Government Association, the student-run governing body that works alongside the many clubs and organizations that enhance the rich and vibrant Hofstra community.
