100 Years of the Nobel Peace Prize
On December 10, 1901, the first Nobel Peace Prize was awarded in Oslo, Norway. One hundred years later we commemorate a century of peacemaking with an interdisciplinary, international conference titled 2001: A Peace Odyssey. The Conference will be held at Hofstra University, Hempstead, Long Island, New York, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 8, 9 and 10, 2001. Nobel Peace Prize winners and other global activists and policy makers will be invited to participate in the three-day conference, providing both historical and visionary dimensions to the gathering. The event will offer an important interdisciplinary reflection on peace and war in the 20th century as well as an exploration of the challenges of peacemaking in the future. In addition to papers that focus on the Nobel Peace Prize, its laureates, history, mission and consequences, the Conference Committee is interested in papers and presentations on the following topics:

- General Theories of War and Peace
- Conflict Prevention and Resolution
- Nuclear Disarmament and Abolition
- Conventional Weapons Proliferation
- Land Mines
- Biological and Chemical Disarmament
- Impact of Economic Sanctions
- Globalization and Economic Violence
- Environment and Peace
- Building a Culture of Peace
- Indigenous Cultures: Contributions to Peace
- Peace History
- Peace and the Arts
- Peace Education
- War and Peace in the Media
- The Role of International Law
- The International Criminal Court
- The Role of the United Nations and Other International Organizations
- Foreign Policy and International Diplomacy
- Women and War/Peace
- Child Soldiers
- Youth and Peace
- Race, Ethnicity and Social Justice
- Human Rights and Peace
- Religion and World Peace
- Conscientious Objection
- Examining Humanitarian Intervention
- The Role of Civil Society and NGOs
- Unsung Peacemakers

Presentations on other topics are welcome.
