BENEFIT PERFORMANCE
Thursday, September 14, 2006
Howard Rowland has twenty eight years of experience within the construction industry. He received his Associates Degree in Construction Technology from Farmingdale State University and a Bachelors Degree in Architecture, as well as an MBA from the New York Institute of Technology. In 1983, Howard started as a Project Manager with E.W. Howell and effectively built his way to the top. In 1997, he assumed the role of President, bringing a sense of integrity and leadership to the company, while expanding the strength and success of the firm. He has served on the Board of Directors of the General Building Contractors of New York State, representing the Long Island region. He is presently the Secretary of the Building Contractors Association and serves on the Farmingdale State University Advisory Board.
