In these works of modern fiction, love and desire cross paths in the math department, on the analyst’s couch, in an Israeli garage - and often with surprising results: an arranged marriage heats up, a ménage à trois turns cozy.