AP Accounting
Pilot Training in
New York State

Date: June 28-30, 2010
Time: 8 am to 5 pm
Location: Hofstra University
Hempstead, NY 11549

The goal of the AP Accounting Pilot initiative is to have the College Board approve an AP Accounting course and examination at their next implementation meeting in 2012. The pilot is currently in its third year, with over 100 teachers from 25 states trained to implement and pilot the course. In order to participate in the pilot, teachers must attend the training. This summer’s training is the first to be held in New York State.

The pilot is a full-year course, based on approximately 90 contact hours. It is a rigorous, college-level course that emphasizes analytical and decision-making skills, and includes financial accounting, managerial accounting and financial statement analysis concepts. Teachers who attend the training program are expected to begin implementing the entire course or parts of it in the 2010-2011 school year. Schools presently teaching college level Accounting courses may implement part of or the entire curriculum within those courses. A pilot examination may be taken for a fee by students who complete the pilot. The data gleaned will be used for the College Board presentation in 2012.
