Recipient of the Ann M. Mallouk Endowed Scholarship for Women in Science

For Ms. Luis of New Hampton, New York., a graduate of the biochemistry program, the cost of applying to medical schools would have been prohibitive without the help of the scholarship.

"Hofstra helped me to realize my dream of becoming a doctor through this scholarship, which gave me more time to devote to my studies and increased my chances of being accepted into medical school," she said.

Kevonne Mondesir '06

The lectures are well publicized, and the donor's name is associated with the lectures financed by the endowment. The Endowed Lectureship is established in perpetuity for a minimum gift of $100,000. ## endowed visiting chairs

An Endowed Visiting Chair invests in a program that enriches the educational process by adding new insights to an academic department. By endowing a Visiting Chair, you allow Hofstra to bring distinguished scholars to the University for limited residences. These scholars add great prestige to our academic departments and broaden our students' learning experiences. As a result, you will help encourage scholarship and inspire future academic leaders.

An Endowed Visiting Chair may be established in perpetuity for a minimum gift of $1 million. As the donor, you may name and choose the field of study for the Visiting Chair, within University guidelines.
