In 1959 a dream became a reality. WHCH, an FCC-licensed FM radio station, was born at Hofstra. Over the years, the call letters have changed from WHCH to WVHC to WRHU, reflecting the changes and growth of Hofstra from a college to a university. For 50 years, WHCH/WVHC/WRHU has trained and nurtured thousands of young people, while continually offering quality, award-winning programming to the public.

WRHU, Radio Hofstra University, is the oldest noncommercial radio station on Long Island and one of the largest student-operated stations in the world. It is an integral part of the Long Island community, serving and responding to its needs on a daily basis. In addition, WRHU is proud of its rich tradition of cultivating young women and men as superb, ethical broadcasters.

This celebration of a half-century of broadcasting also marks the inauguration of the WRHU Hall of Fame. The names of the inaugural inductees, chosen for their service to the radio station at Hofstra University and their professional success, will be displayed proudly in Dempster Hall.
