American Periodical Series Online

Dear Subscriber,

Anyone studying American history should have a look at American Periodical Series Online. Comprised of over 1,000 journals with coverage from Colonial times to the early 20th century, this database is also of interest to those with an interest in politics, religion, or women's studies. The digitized images of journal pages preserves the typography and layout and includes advertisements, a rich source for study. The database can be searched in all the usual ways and there are some interesting limiters such as advertisement, recipe, birth notice, or illustration. There is a lot to explore in this database and it is worth some time to acquaint yourself with it.

For more information follow this link:

A link to this database can be found on the Research Databases link on the Library's web page:  http://www.hofstra.edu/library

Howard E. Graves
Senior Assistant Dean - Hofstra University Library

Have questions? Need help with your research? The Axinn Library Reference Desk is the place to start. Contact a Reference Librarian at 516.463.5962 or via LibAnswers.