What Should You Take First?

Besides our Senior Seminars (and Geog 160), our classes can be taken at any time, whether you just want to try out geography or you want to major or minor in it.

GEOG 001 (BH) – World Regional Geography
MWF 9:05 am – 10:00 am (Section 1)
TR 9:35 am – 11:00 am (Section 2)
TR 4:30 pm – 5:55 pm (Section A)

This course offers an overview of the major regions of the world, their characteristics, and the contemporary human and environmental issues faced by each. Great for anyone who wants to know more about the world. REQUIRED FOR BOTH THE GS AND GEOGRAPHY MAJOR AND MINOR.

GEOG 002 (BH) – Human Geography
TR 12:45 pm - 2:10 pm (Section 1)

An exploration of how society drives environmental and geographical issues. It mainly deals with Population Geography, Political Geography, Economic Geography, Cultural Geography, and Urban and Regional Geography. Required for the Geography Major and Minor. REQUIRED COURSE FOR THE GEOGRAPHY MAJOR.

GEOG 003 (BH) – Introduction to Geography
MW 2:55 pm – 4:20 pm (Section 1)
MW 4:30 pm – 5:55 pm (Section A)

An introduction to the changing geography of a globalizing world. This course provides students with the conceptual basis for understanding and interpreting global change and the economic, political and cultural relationships that exist between and within the different regions of the world. Focusing on topics such as population, migration, the spatially uneven outcomes of political processes, economic development, environment and climate change, logistics, urbanization and cultural convergence and hybridity. These and related topics are examined through the lens of various sub-disciplines of geography.

Geog 004 (BH) – Cultural Geography, 3sh
TR 11:10 am – 12:35 pm (Section 1)

Cultural geography is one of the main subdisciplines of human geography. At the core of human geography are the concepts of place and space. In this course we will analyze the relationship between culture and the production of the geographic landscape. We also investigate how migration has led to cultural diffusion, and how culture influences perceptions of the natural environment and the usage of natural resources. Lastly, we analyze the cultural norms that underpin the allocation of public and private space, and how these norms in turn influence our sense of space and place.

GEOG 007 – Fun with Maps and GIS
M 10:10 am - 11:05 am (Section 1)
W 10:10 am - 11:05 am (Section 2)

This 1-credit Geographical Information Systems (GIS) course introduces non-geography students to the core concepts of ArcView GIS software. Students will create basic maps, exploring the data behind them, and gain an understanding of how GIS is used to visualize real-world features, identify patterns, etc. Taken as a Pass/Fail option.

GEOG 060 (BH) – Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (GIS)
MW 12:50 pm - 2:15 pm (Section 1)
MW 2:55 pm - 4:20 pm (Section 2)

This course introduces students to GIS foundations, concepts, and application techniques. GIS integrates several information technologies, such as mapping and database management systems, providing spatial information. GIS is increasingly an essential tool in a wide array of professional fields. Required for the Geography Major. Highly recommended for majors in Urban Ecology, Geology, Marketing, and International Business. REQUIRED COURSE FOR THE GEOGRAPHY MAJOR (COUNTS FOR GS MAJOR).

GEOG 106 (BH, CC) - Urbanization In The Developing World
MW 12:50 pm – 2:15 pm (Section 1)

Coping with rapid urbanization and the uncontrolled growth of cities, poses one of the greatest geographical challenges facing the nations of the developing world. This course introduces students to the study of urbanization in the developing world and explores the urban problems such as insufficient infrastructure, unemployment, lack of housing and inadequate social services that occur in these cities. The course has a regional focus and looks at the development of cities in Latin America, Asia, Sub-Saharan Africa, and North Africa and the Middle East, highlighting each regions distinctive urban patterns and problems. The last section of the course looks at possible solutions and policies that could be adopted to help alleviate the problems of rapid urbanization and poverty in the cities of the developing world.
GEOG 113 C – Geography of East & Southeast Asia
DL ONLINE

This course examines East and Southeast Asia, commonly known as Pacific Asia. Pacific Asian societies have experienced various phases of development since the end of World War II. Topics include socioeconomic features of: Japan, China, South Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Singapore and other countries such as Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia, Vietnam and the Philippines. Problems and prospects of development in the region as well as issues related to urbanization, transportation, agriculture and resource development are covered.

GEOG 114 (BH, CC) - GEOGRAPHY OF SOUTH ASIA
TR 11:10 am – 12:35 pm (Section 1)

Analyzes the human geography of South Asia, (i.e., the countries of Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and Maldives). Emphasis will be on cultural, economic and political geography. Topics covered include natural resources, religion, gender roles, migration, governance, trade, development, child labor and contemporary slavery.

GEOG 135 (BH) – Economic Geography
TR 12:45 pm – 2:10 pm

Theory and analysis of the location of economic activities; distribution and hierarchy of central places; land use; delineation, structure and growth of economic regions. COUNTS TOWARD THE MAJOR IN ECONOMICS, GEOGRAPHY AND GS

Geog 140 (BH,CC) – Geography of Latin America, 3sh
MWF 10:10 am – 11:05 am (Section 1)

Study of the physical and human geographic roots of Latin American societies, from Mexico to the southern cone of South America. Explores the forces that shaped this unique region and considers its role in the contemporary world. Impact of historical geography since pre-Columbian period on modern Latin America. Economic and political geography in relation to other world regions. Changing human landscapes and social transformations currently affecting many of the area's inhabitants.

GEOG 145 (BH, CC) – Geography of Africa
MW 2:55 pm – 4:20 pm (Section 1)

This course studies Africa’s diverse human and physical landscapes, focusing on the interaction between the two. The cultural, environmental, economic, social, political, and population geographies will be analyzed.
Courses Requiring Prerequisites:

GEOG 100 – Honors Essay – TBA

Research and writing of a substantial essay in the field of geography.

GEOG 160 – Intermediate Geographic Information Systems

MW 9:05 am – 10:30 am

This is highly recommended for students wanting to further expand their knowledge about GIS.

Prerequisite(s)/Course Notes:
Geog 60 is a prerequisite for the class.

GEOG 170 – Advanced Geographic Information Systems – TBA

This advanced course covers GIS foundations, concepts, and application techniques in-depth. Primarily focuses upon the professional applications of GIS technology, such as project management, geodatabase creation, advanced cartography, and data analysis. Students acquire proficiency in applying GIS to the analysis of problems in a wide array of fields. Students may choose projects related to their area of interest (e.g., geography, sustainability, ecology, geology, history, etc.). Geog 160 is a prerequisite for the class.

GEOG 180 – Field Studies in Geography – TBA

This course will examine, both theoretically and experientially, a range of methodologies and techniques utilized in field studies in physical, human, and environmental geography. This examination also involves understanding the processes of globalization and modernization and their impacts on the various sites that are observed in the field. Key concepts such as scale, time, succession, and sustainability will be used to observe and understand the diverse landscapes of urban, suburban, and rural spaces. GEOG 180 will be taught in the field, since that is where geographers seek the information that provides the basis of the great majority of their research. It is designed in a flexible manner that will allow it to be incorporated into a Hofstra study abroad program or a U.S.-based study-travel program, or to be offered as a locally taught course that will involve day trips into the field within the greater metropolitan area.

GEOG 190 – Internship in Geography - TBA

This work-study program aims at providing students with an opportunity to apply academic and theoretical knowledge to practical situations.
GEOG 191 – Sem Geography Methodology
W 2:55 pm – 4:50 pm

Required for Geography majors. Required for all seniors in Global Studies who are planning on doing an Honors thesis (Geog and/or GS 100).

Prerequisite(s)/Course Notes:
18 s.h. in courses recognized as part of the geography program, with a geography GPA of 3.0 or above; or by permission of chairperson of Global Studies and Geography. A minimum of 28 hours of work (for each sh of credit) in an approved academic, government, non-government or research institution is combined with classroom meetings, reading and writing assignments including an in-depth term paper that situates the internship experience within the broader framework of geography scholarship.

GLOBAL STUDIES

What Should You Take First?

Besides our Senior Seminars (and GS 100, GS 190), our classes can be taken at any time, whether you just want to try out global studies or you want to major or minor in it. These two courses can be taken in any sequence. Both of these classes are highly relevant to a wide variety of majors:

GS 001 (IS) - Introduction to Global Studies
MW 2:55 pm – 4:20 pm (Section 1)
MW 4:30 pm – 5:55 pm (Section A)

This course introduces students to different perspectives on global studies, exposing them to critical global economic and political issues and challenges. It also examines globalization at global, regional, national, and individual levels.
REQUIRED FOR THE MAJOR AND MINOR ALSO COUNTS TOWARD THE GEOGRAPHY MAJOR/MINOR

GS 002 (CC, IS) - Cultural Globalization
TR 9:35 am - 11:00 am (Section 1)
TR 4:30 pm - 5:55 pm (Section A)

Taking an interdisciplinary approach, examines the effects of global culture on cultural formation throughout the world (with particular attention to the “non-Western” world).
REQUIRED FOR THE MAJOR AND MINOR ALSO COUNTS TOWARD THE GEOGRAPHY MAJOR/MINOR
Other Courses

GS 105 (CC, IS) - Globalization Food Cultures
TR  2:20 pm – 3:45 pm (Section 1)

This course analyzes the ways in which diverse food cultures around the world have been shaped in the context of colonialism, modernization, and globalization. Readings focus on the construction and hierarchization of ethnic and national identities based on patterns of food production, preparation and consumption. Special attention is paid to the role of written and cinematic texts in the process of creation and contestation of culinary cultural identities. We also look at how different cultures resist the homogenizing tendencies of globalization by localizing fast food and redefining traditional food practices.

GS 108 (CC, IS) - Globalization and Human Trafficking
MWF  1:55 pm – 2:50 pm (Section 1)

This course will expose students to the phenomenon of human trafficking in the context of an increasingly globalized world. Human trafficking includes the sex trade and exploitation of women and children, trafficking in babies and children for purposes of adoption, and international trade of human organs, as well as trafficking for the purpose of labor exploitation. The course includes an examination of the definitions, history, and development of trafficking in human beings in the context of economic and political globalization. It will also assess the major international agreements and legal mechanisms that are employed to address human trafficking around the world. Interdisciplinary in nature, the course will include lectures, readings, debate, and guest speakers from international organizations dealing with human trafficking.

GS 109 (CC, IS) - Globalization and Human Rights
MWF  12:50 pm – 1:45 pm (Section 1)

This course deals with a broad range of issues and conflicts that can be understood within the framework of human rights in an increasingly globalized world, including the following: education; immigration; housing; the environment; and the protection of women, children, and minorities or marginalized peoples from discrimination, torture, and disenfranchisement. The course examines the definitions, history, and evolution of human rights as well as the major international agreements and legal mechanisms and organizations that are employed to monitor human rights around the world. In addition to lectures, readings, and debate, the course includes guest speakers from international agencies.

Courses Requiring Prerequisites:

GS 100 – Honors Essay – TBA

Research and writing of a substantial essay in the field of global studies.

Prerequisite(s)/Course Notes:
GEOG 191 or permission of the department chairperson. Open only to qualified global studies majors who have attained senior standing, who wish to graduate with departmental honors, and who secure, before registration, written permission of the chairperson and of the instructor who will supervise the essay; cumulative grade point average of at least 3.4; minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the global studies major. May not be taken on a Pass/D+/D/Fail basis.

GS 180 (IS) - Senior Seminar in Global Studies

M 12:45 pm - 2:45 pm

The Senior Seminar in Global Studies and Research Methodology is designed for senior global studies majors. This seminar course informs global studies majors on how to conduct detailed qualitative and quantitative research on global studies topics and also examines their understanding of the theoretical aspects of the subject. The seminar provides an introduction on how to set up research questions, gather and analyze different types of data. A comprehensive examination and the completion of a research report are required. The research report has three components: a proposal which includes oral presentations to fellow students, a final written report, and an oral presentation of research findings to fellow students.

Prerequisite(s)/Course Notes:

GS 001, 002, and 21 completed sh in courses recognized as part of the GS program, or permission of the director of Global Studies.

Open only to GS Majors. Required for the Global Studies Major.

GS 190 - Internship in Global Studies - TBA

This work-study program aims at providing students with an opportunity to apply academic and theoretical knowledge to practical situations. A minimum of 28 hours of work (for each semester hour of credit) in an approved academic, government, non-government or research institution is combined with weekly classroom meetings, and reading and writing assignments, including an in-depth term paper that situates the internship experience within the broader framework of global studies scholarship.

Prerequisite(s)/Course Notes:

Eighteen (18) sh in courses recognized as part of the Global Studies program, with a global studies GPA of 3.0 or above, or by permission of director of Global Studies.
