DEPARTMENT OF GLOBAL STUDIES AND GEOGRAPHY
SUMMER COURSES 2020

Categories:
CC – cross-cultural, IS – Interdisciplinary, BH - Behavioral Social Sciences

SUMMER SESSION I

GS 001 – (IS) Introduction to Global Studies – DL – ONLINE
05/20 – 06/17 Prof. Saff Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

Introduction to Global Studies is an interdisciplinary course that introduces students to different perspectives on global studies and exposes them to critical global economic and cultural issues and challenges. This course also examines globalization at a variety of different scales of analysis, ranging from global, to regional and national, to individual. Credit given for this course or GEOG 003, not both.

05/20 – 06/17 Prof. Saff Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

An introduction to the changing geography of a globalizing world. This course provides students with the conceptual basis for understanding and interpreting global change and the economic, political and cultural relationships that exist between and within the different regions of the world. Credit given for this course or GS 001, not both.

GEOG 145 – (BH, CC) Geography of Africa – DL – ONLINE
05/20 – 06/17 Prof. Saff Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

The study of Africa’s diverse human and physical landscapes, focusing on the interaction between the two. Analysis of the cultural, environmental, economic, social, political and population geography of the continent. Examples are drawn from many of Africa’s more than 50 individual nation-states.

SUMMER SESSION II

GEOG 106 – (BH, CC) Urbanization In The Developing World – DL – ONLINE
06/25 – 07/23 Prof. Saff Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

Coping with rapid urbanization and the uncontrolled growth of cities, poses one of the greatest geographical challenges facing the nations of the developing world. This course introduces students to the study of urbanization in the developing world and explores the urban problems such as insufficient infrastructure, unemployment, lack of housing and inadequate social services that occur in these cities.
SUMMER SESSION III

GS 001 – (IS) Introduction to Global Studies – DL – ONLINE
08/03 – 08/21  Prof. Saff  Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

Introduction to Global Studies is an interdisciplinary course that introduces students to different perspectives on global studies and exposes them to critical global economic and cultural issues and challenges. This course also examines globalization at a variety of different scales of analysis, ranging from global, to regional and national, to individual. Credit given for this course or GEOG 003, not both.

08/03 – 08/21  Prof. Saff  Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

An introduction to the changing geography of a globalizing world. This course provides students with the conceptual basis for understanding and interpreting global change and the economic, political and cultural relationships that exist between and within the different regions of the world. Credit given for this course or GS 001, not both.

GEOG 145 – (BH, CC) Geography of Africa – DL – ONLINE
08/03 – 08/21  Prof. Saff  Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu

The study of Africa’s diverse human and physical landscapes, focusing on the interaction between the two. Analysis of the cultural, environmental, economic, social, political and population geography of the continent. Examples are drawn from many of Africa’s more than 50 individual nation-states.

Please contact the instructor if you have any questions about the classes we offer.

For more information about majoring or minoring in our Department, contact the Chair, Grant.R.Saff@hofstra.edu or the GS, GEOG, GIS Adviser in the CUA, Dean Bert Binder, Bert.Binder@hofstra.edu

Department of Global Studies and Geography
209 Roosevelt Hall
516-463-5826
gsgeog@hofstra.edu
www.hofstra/geography