In Bad Ideas about Writing, Jill Parrott argues that “We are all authors, and all authors can become better authors” (74). Consider the essay you crafted for WSC 002 this semester. Apply four points from Parrott’s chapter, “Some People are Just Born Good Writers,” that help you understand yourself as a writer and the writing process in general. Be sure to quote/paraphrase and cite directly from both your and Parrott’s work. Analyze whatever you include from either text. Your essay should take a supported position.
