

THEODORE P. KOVALEFF
454 Riverside Drive
New York City, NY 10027

December 3, 2004

Eric J. Schmertz
Edward F. Carlough Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Law

Natalie Datlof
Executive Director Hofstra Cultural Center
Hofstra University
Hempstead, NY 11549

Greetings:

I look forward to participating in the 11th Presidential Conference. As was the case with my earlier involvements, I will attempt to analyze the antitrust record of the president in question.

Clearly, the Microsoft Case will be a portion of the paper, but there is a great deal more that must be covered. The other topics will include the various mergers in the defence, telecommunications, and media industries.

In all, I plan to show that the record was mixed; it being likely that the over-emphasis on the Microsoft case may have allowed some mergers to have escaped the scrutiny that otherwise might have been merited.

In terms of sources, I will use my interviews with the Assistant Attorneys General in Charge of the Antitrust Division, corporate documents, and various law review articles.

Sincerely,

Theodore P. Kovaleff