

Slow Art Day

2. JOIN THE CONVERSATION
SATURDAY,
APRIL 4TH

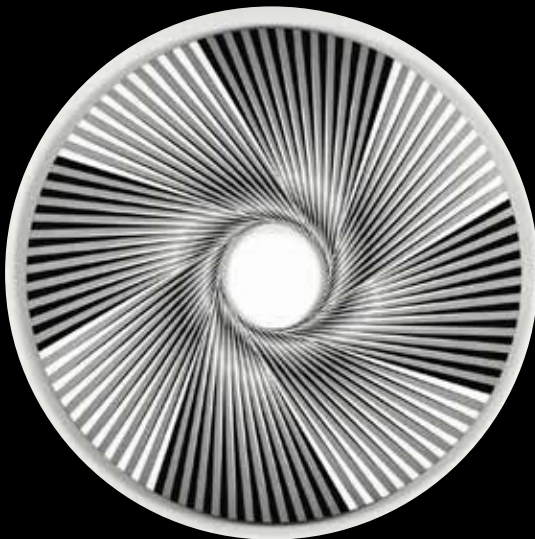

@ 12 PM
Click Here to Register for Zoom Meeting
limited to 20 participants

John Goodyear
(American, 1930-2019)
Acrylic on wood, 36x36x6in.
Courtesy of Berry Campbell Gallery,
New York © 2020 John Goodyear

1. Take your time now and look at these pieces for 5 minutes.
Try not to judge
and think about how the artists use color, light,
patterns and motion.

Uncharted:
American Abstraction
in the Information Age

Gilbert Hsiao
(American, born 1956)
Galaxie 64, 2015 Acrylic on panel 41x41in.
Courtesy of the artist © 2020 Gilbert Hsiao

James O. Clark
(American, born 1948)
Reflective Moments, 2018
Clear vinyl, mirror Mylar, Plexiglas and argon light tube, 18x12x14in.
Courtesy of the artist © 2020 James O. Clark

ABOUT

Welcome to International Slow Art Day 2020! The average museum visitor spends less than 30 seconds with each work of art. Why the rush? Slow Art Day is a grassroots movement to support museums and art galleries around the world by empowering museum visitors to change their art-viewing experience.

We invite you to VIRTUALLY engage in mindful looking allowing for deeper reflection and a greater understanding of the work. Hope to see you "there"!