II. Report of the Senate Executive Committee Eugene Maccarrone

Prof. Maccarrone reported that the Ad-Hoc Committee on Academic Calendar and Religious Observance Policy and the Ad-hoc Committee to Review and Update Governance Documents both continue to meet and have been making progress.

Prof. Maccarrone reported that the Special Committee on Recruitment, Elections and Nominations (SCREAN) met on April 24 to determine the committee assignments for 2017-2018. Caroline Schreiner is the chair of that committee.

Prof. Maccarrone reported that on April 25, Student Access Services (SAS) Sub Committee on the Student Academic Experience met. He reported on two matters he feels the SEC need to be made aware of

- attendance modification guidelines that faculty and students that have either chronic illness or disability or a sudden illness or disability and how we can go about as faculty to accommodate those students who cannot attend class.
  - very individualized
- inadequacies of testing facilities

Prof. Maccarrone reported that the Hofstra Gala is being held on Thursday, May 4 at 7pm in the Hofstra Arena. Alan Bernon, class of 1976 and chair of the Board of Trustees, is being honored this year.
Prof. Maccarrone reported that on Friday, May 5 is the last full faculty meeting for the academic year. The Provost will be addressing the faculty and there is a big agenda for the day.

Prof. Maccarrone reported that a ground breaking ceremony for the new Frank G. Zarb School of Business building will be held Wednesday, May 10 at 11:30 a.m.

Prof. Maccarrone reported that on Wednesday, May 17 a reception honoring Dean Firestone, will be held at 4pm in the University Club.

Prof. Maccarrone reported that commencement will be held on Sunday, May 21.

Prof. Maccarrone gives his congratulations to Stuart Bass, who was re-elected as Speaker of the Faculty.

The Provost recognized Jessica Eads, Vice President for Enrollment Management, who gave an update on enrollment:

- on pace to meet budget for undergraduate first-year students
- Excelsior Program in New York has caused some real problems in the local area
  - We have to be cautious that we are engaging our current deposited freshman as much as we can during this summer and getting them excited over their choice to enroll at Hofstra
- too early to tell how transfer students enrollment are
  - sensitive market
  - highly local
- new graduate student enrollment is cause for concern
  - specifically in the School of Business and the School of Education
  - nationally, there have been a decline in international student enrollment

A discussion followed.
Action Items

1. Prof. Maccarrone presented for action the revisions to Revisions Faculty Policy Series #10 - Examinations, Final Grades, and Student Absences. The item was worked on and approved by the Undergraduate Academic Affairs Committee and reviewed and approved by the Faculty Affairs Committee Paul Fritz, interim chair of the Undergraduate Academic Affairs Committee, reported that the revision is simply inserting language from the AAUP’s Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) into the FPS. The item was passed unanimously.

2. Prof. Maccarrone presented for action the Mid Semester Advisory. The item was created and approved by the Undergraduate Academic Affairs Committee and reviewed and approved by the Faculty Affairs Committee Paul Fritz, interim chair of the Undergraduate Academic Affairs Committee, reported that this item was originally brought to the faculty back in 2016 but was sent back to the committee. The committee took into account the feedback they received from the Information Sessions scheduled by the Speaker of the Faculty as well as visits to different colleges on campus. In addition, the committee conducted a survey of undergraduate students to gauge the desire for a mid-semester advisory. He made it clear that this is an advisory system for students and not grades. This advisory system is designed for early outreach to students that are struggling. He reported that research shows that mid-semester advisories, assessments and other forms are a necessary step to creating a system to identify students who are struggling. Another critical part of the committee’s discussion is to protect academic freedom, that this is not infringing upon faculty’s rights to structure their courses as they see fit that is pedagogically necessary for their discipline. He briefly summarized the policy:
   - It would be a binary indication of student performance to date
     - Satisfactory/ reasons for concern
   - the reporting screen for instructors will appear and be available online and will be of a format similar to that for posting Last Date of Attendance (LDA) rosters.
   - does not get computed into the final grade for the course
   - applies to only full-time fall and spring courses
   - deadline for submitting the mid-semester advisory will be no later than the 7th week of the semester
     - faculty can submit before this
       - early submissions are better at catching “at risk” students
o instructors can enter an advisory to the student(s) and to the Center for University Advising (CUA) and other appropriate offices prior to the deadline but able to change the advisory at any point prior to the end of the 7th week point

• the committee intends to review the policy and assess the effectiveness of a mid-semester advisory program after 2 years of the implementation of the program

Prof. Fritz reported that results of the survey conducted shows overwhelming support by students for this kind of policy. He briefly summarized the survey questions and responses.

A discussion followed and the item was passed with 16 in favor of and 3 opposed.

3. Prof. Maccarrone presented for action the revisions to the Basic Regulations Governing Graduate Programs. Debra Goodman, chair of the Graduate Academic Affairs Committee, reported that upon finishing revising the graduate bulletin regarding overlapping coursework in Hofstra graduate degrees, the committee decided to review and amend the rest of the basic regulations governing graduate programs and came up with a number of suggested revisions. These revisions do not affect policy, just clarity of the bulletin copy. She summarized the revisions and the following amendment was made:

   Grading in graduate courses includes the categories A, B, C, D, F and P/F. Alphabetical grades are further divided into plus and minus levels (see Grades).

was amended to include a chart mapping out all of the grades that is already included in the bulletin under the link “see Grades.”

the item was passed unanimously.

III. New Business

There was no new business.

IV. Committee Reports

A. George Giuliani, chair of the Faculty Affairs Committee reported that the committee spent its last meeting discussing the Mid-Semester Advisory. Paul Fritz was in attendance and in the end, was approved by the Faculty Affairs Committee.
