Dear Subscriber,

The Undergraduate Library Research Award (ULRA) was established in 1997 by the Hofstra University Library faculty to recognize and reward excellence in research and writing by a graduating senior.

All papers are nominated by the faculty member for whom the paper was written, and read carefully by a faculty selection committee. There will be two awards of $500 given from the Provost’s Office and the Library. Both winning papers will be published on the University Library ULRA website during the 2013/2014 academic year.

Past winners have come from the Department of Fine Arts, History, Music, Political Science, Speech-Language-Hearing Sciences and Psychology.

Submission guidelines, instructions, and links to last year’s winning papers are available at:
