Newspaper Collection, 1851-
8.3 cubic ft.

A large portion of the collection is comprised of clippings of illustrations (largely 19th-century political cartoons and reportorial sketches) that appeared in newspapers such as Ballou's Pictorial Drawing-Room Companion, Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, Gleason's Pictorial Drawing-Room Companion, and Harper's Weekly. Many of the Harper's Weekly illustrations were done by Thomas Nast, who worked for the newspaper from 1862 until late 1886. Nast, whose political cartoons were extremely influential, is often referred to as the "Father of American Caricature."

Also included in the collection are newspapers, news clippings, magazines, and illustrated journal covers and advertisements, many of which are from local Long Island source materials.
