² Students enroll in two summer sessions (summer classes will generally last 14 weeks): one during the first year of the program and one during the second year of the program.

³ Students enroll in one summer class (summer classes will generally last 14 weeks) during the second year of the program.

⁴ Students completing the long term care track should take HADM 230 in the spring of their second year and then complete the internship HADM 260 in their third fall semester.
